

As we approach the holiday season, we are grateful to the greater community as it generously supports individuals facing breast cancer with their families.

As Susan G. Komen completed its breast cancer awareness month in October, this not only translated into statewide breast health activities, programs, outreach and patient care every day of the month. It means so many of you were engaged in your own group activities supporting Komen's mission through local fundraisers to benefit breast cancer patients in our local communities. Whether from schools, car dealerships and ice cream sales, to a hardware store, a boys soccer club and softball tournaments, so many came together to help fund life-saving programs. This is because breast cancer affects us all in a very personal way.

In this season of sharing, we hope you will consider a personal gift to directly help Komen continue critical programs in Oregon & SW Washington. Every ounce of our efforts is solely possible through the generosity of individuals like you as well as community organizations and businesses who value Komen's mission and impact on those affected by breast cancer. For this, we are forever grateful to you.

We wish you and your loved ones a wonderful holiday season.

Best wishes,

Andrew Asato
